Rupesh Patel, Kenya
Bachelor of Commerce – Accounting, (Macquarie City Campus)

“My Macquarie degree will definitely help me in the future. The city is a good place to study because of the small class sizes, the contact you can have with your teachers and the high standard of teaching. My teachers have very practical knowledge about accounting.”
INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE OF MANAGEMENT SYDNEY

The International College of Management, Sydney (ICMS) educates leaders in Events Management, Hospitality Management, International Tourism, Strategic Property Management, Retail Management and Sport Management.

THE CENTRE FOR MACQUARIE ENGLISH
The Centre for Macquarie English (CME), the Macquarie University’s English language centre, is conveniently located on campus, next to the Macquarie International and SIBT building.

WHY CME IS A GREAT PLACE TO STUDY ENGLISH
- Students at CME can select a discipline-specific direct entry English course most relevant to their future study plans. The direct entry English programs have been developed in consultation with University academics to ensure that you develop the language, communication and study skills needed to succeed in your undergraduate and postgraduate studies at Macquarie University. CME also offers a direct entry program for SIBT students.
CME's direct entry English programs are recognised as official entry pathways to Macquarie and SIBT, so when you pass your Direct Entry course you do not need to sit an IELTS or TOEFL examination to enter University.

By studying at CME on campus you will feel part of the University from the first day of your Orientation program.

All CME teachers are highly qualified, most with postgraduate qualifications in teaching English, and many are IELTS examiners.

Course fees include all learning materials – both in-class materials and those available on CME Online, which enrolled students can access 24 hours a day! As a CME student you can use our well-equipped library before or after class and develop your listening, reading and writing skills using the library’s DVDs, books and computer-based learning materials. Our qualified teaching staff in the library are there to help you with your private study.

Free tutorials (such as conversation and writing skills development) are provided by CME Language Advisers for students identified as needing extra tuition in these areas.

You can participate in our intercultural communication workshops and regular social events and activities. At our dance parties, barbeques and football matches, you’ll make friends with other students from around the world.

We will help you choose the best course to meet your needs. CME English courses range from five to forty weeks, depending on your level of English when you enrol. The Centre offers General English courses, group Study Tours, as well as academically-focused English programs.

DO YOU NEED TO TAKE THE IELTS TEST?

If you need to take the IELTS test before you leave home, you can enrol in one of CME’s acclaimed IELTS online courses: IELTS Master and IELTS Express. These courses provide candidates thorough preparation for the IELTS test, and include practice IELTS tests, guided learning materials based on IELTS test items and test taking tips. The Speaking and Writing modules of the IELTS Master courses also provide online tutors.

For more information and a free demonstration lesson please visit: www.ieltsonline.com.au

CME is also one of Australia’s largest IELTS test Centres and our students who want to take the IELTS test in Sydney are offered first choice of test dates.

DO YOU ALREADY HAVE A FULL OFFER BUT WOULD LIKE TO BE WELL PREPARED FOR YOUR STUDY AT MACQUARIE UNIVERSITY?

CME’s four week Introductory Academic Program (IAP) is for students who have a full offer to Macquarie University, but who want to be well prepared for studying in an Australian university. CME students who have taken our Introductory Academic Program say that they began their university studies understanding what they needed to do to get good marks in written assignments, oral presentations and seminar participation.

Toni Compagnone, France

After studying English at the Centre for Macquarie English, Toni is now completing a Master of International Business

“Studying at CME is a unique experience. You are not only improving your English abilities but also benefiting from the cross-section of various cultures, and developing your awareness and open-mindedness. CME’s English program is a great way to prepare for university entry. In addition, teachers contribute to your knowledge of Aussie culture and of typical expressions which can be particularly useful in daily life.”
Completing an undergraduate degree at Macquarie University may just be the first step in your tertiary education. As well as opportunities to undertake postgraduate coursework degrees, the University provides pathways into higher research degrees.

Macquarie University is a leader in providing unique research opportunities for interested students. If you think that you would like to complete a higher research degree in the future, Macquarie is a great place to start.

There are generous scholarships available for research at Macquarie in key areas of research excellence. For more information on these scholarships, and on research at Macquarie, visit: www.research.mq.edu.au/students/scholarships

There are a number of pathways from a Bachelor degree to a higher research degree (such as a Doctor of Philosophy or PhD), as shown in the diagram below. For more information on these options, visit: www.research.mq.edu.au/students

COTUTELE (JOINT PHD SUPERVISION) – GAIN DOUBLE RECOGNITION
In addition to the usual direct entry PhD, Macquarie University also encourages joint PhD enrolment with research-active overseas universities as part of our internationalisation and research collaboration strategy.

Simultaneous enrolment at Macquarie University and one of our partner universities will enable students to submit one thesis for joint recognition. About half of the student’s time will be spent at each university and travel funds are provided. Students will be supervised by researchers at the two universities and meet all the requirements to graduate at both of them.

Macquarie University encourages joint PhD applications with a generous scholarship scheme.
